

FUR TYPES

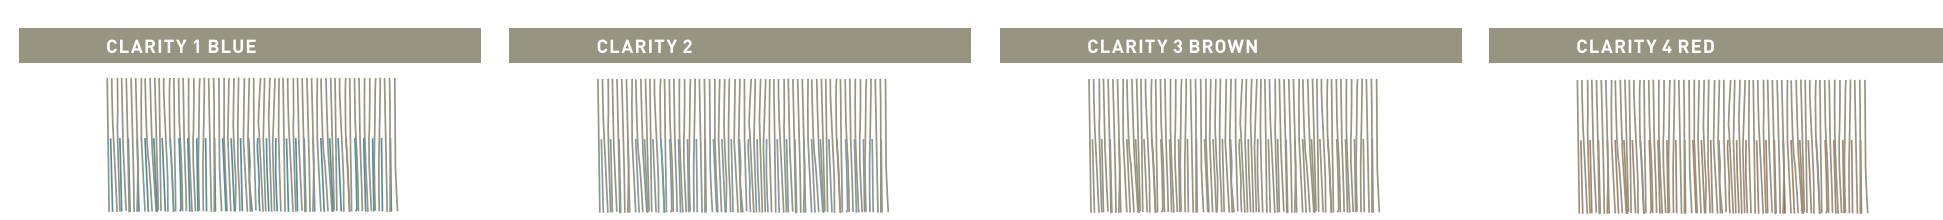

RARE TYPES

VERY RARE TYPES

CLARITY

HAIR LENGTHS

A little from the underfur. The skin will be characterised by the dominance of the guard hair.

VELVET

The length of the guard hair differs only slightly from the underfur. The skin will be characterised by the dominance of the underfur.

OTHER FACTORS

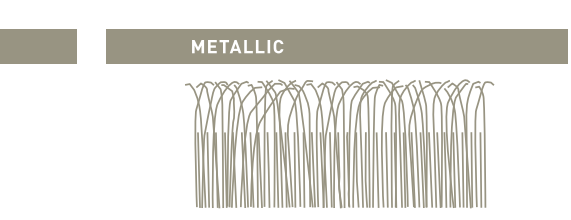

The length of the guard hair differs significantly from the underfur. The skin will be characterised by the dominance of the guard hair.

SILKINESS

A skin with very fine, straight and parallel guard hair of same length.

METALLIC

A combination of thick, coarse, overlapping guard hair which curves towards the underfur provides a very irregular, crude surface.

SIMPLY THE WORLD'S FINEST MINK FARMERS

Kopenhagen Fur is the world's largest fur auction house and the leading provider of luxury fur. The company is owned by Danish fur farmers and one of the world's best functioning cooperatives. This fact has for years kept the quality of Kopenhagen Fur's skins amongst the best in the world.

After pelting, the farmers send their skins for sale at the auctions at Kopenhagen Fur. A comprehensive grading takes place so that each skin lot presents itself as uniform as possible. This is important as even minor colour nuances are detectable in the finished garment.

The criteria for grading mink skins are always the same. First the skins are graded according to colour type and sex. Afterwards the skin length is measured. Then the colour grading takes place. Much of the process is automated, using the latest computer technology. After colour grading the skins are graded according to quality by highly skilled experts. Finally, each grading is fine-tuned while at the same time the previous grad-ings are checked. The skins are gathered in lots, each of which are given a lot number.

The approximately 18 million mink skins are sold at five annual auctions from December-September along with thousands of fox, swakara, chinchilla, seal, sable, rex rabbit and karakul skins.

MINK SKINS WITH THE KOPENHAGEN FUR QUALITY LABEL

